Choosing your business enterprise

Overview

When deciding what type of business to set up in the future it is important to consider what business will best suit you. This will depend on your own skills, talents and attributes, what you enjoy and what you would like to get out of a business in the long term. It is equally important to reflect and learn from other entrepreneurs' challenges and success and discover how they have achieved their goals.

You might do this if you want to:

1. develop the abilities that will help if you set up a business in the future
2. understand how businesses succeed

This standard is intended for use in schools and similar settings. It is anticipated that learning and development programmes that are consistent with the standard will have practical activities that mirror or practice aspects of business enterprise, use case studies and other examples of business enterprise and bring people into contact with successful entrepreneurs. To reflect the fact that we do not expect people working to these standards to be directly engaged in preparing, starting or running a real business we have placed the term business in italics at appropriate places to indicate that we have in mind a simulated or practice activity.

Choosing a business enterprise for you involves:

1. understanding you own motives for starting a business
2. being aware of your strengths and weaknesses
3. planning and monitoring your development

CFAUE1

Identifying and managing opportunities and risks

Overview

Being able to identify business opportunities and their potential for growth is one of the keys to business success. When considering a potential opportunity it is important to take the time to assess the strengths and weaknesses of the proposition and be aware of any risks that may be involved. Finding out how successful entrepreneurs have managed risks will help you make informed decisions and avoid common pitfalls.

You might do this if you want to:

1. develop the abilities that will help when setting up a business in the future
2. understand how businesses succeed

This standard is intended for use in schools and similar settings. It is anticipated that learning and development programmes that are consistent with the standard will have practical activities that mirror or practice aspects of business enterprise, use case studies and other examples of business enterprise and bring people into contact with successful entrepreneurs. To reflect the fact that we do not expect people working to these standards to be directly engaged in preparing, starting or running a real business we have placed the term business in italics at appropriate places to indicate that we have in mind a simulated or practice activity.

Identifying and managing opportunities and risks involves:

1. identifying and developing ideas for new products or services
2. being imaginative in the ways you can do business
3. assessing the risks involved in different opportunities

Knowing the market and satisfying customers

Overview

When considering a future business it is important to know that there is a market for the product or service it offers. Having established what the market is you need to plan how to reach it. Once a customer base is secured you need to plan how you are going to look after them.

Understanding what has and hasn't worked for others in business will help you to plan how you would be able to effectively market your product and manage your customers.

You might do this if you want to:

1. develop the abilities that will help when setting up a business in the future
2. understand how to win and keep customers

This standard is intended for use in schools and similar settings. It is anticipated that learning and development programmes that are consistent with the standard will have practical activities that mirror or practice aspects of business enterprise, use case studies and other examples of business enterprise and bring people into contact with successful entrepreneurs. To reflect the fact that we do not expect people working to these standards to be directly engaged in preparing, starting or running a real business we have placed the term business in italics at appropriate places to indicate that we have in mind a simulated or practice activity.

Knowing the market and satisfying customers involves:

1. understanding the market
2. promoting a business
3. effectively managing customer relationships

CFAUE3

Making successful deals

Overview

Making successful deals in business is crucial in helping a business become competitive and achieve its goals. Businesses negotiate and make agreements with a variety of different parties including customers, suppliers, staff and financiers. Valuable lessons can be learnt from understanding how successful entrepreneurs have effectively negotiated deals.

You might do this if you want to:

1. develop the abilities that will help when setting up a business in the future
2. understand how to secure successful business deals

This standard is intended for use in schools and similar settings. It is anticipated that learning and development programmes that are consistent with the standard will have practical activities that mirror or practice aspects of business enterprise, use case studies and other examples of business enterprise and bring people into contact with successful entrepreneurs. To reflect the fact that we do not expect people working to these standards to be directly engaged in preparing, starting or running a real business we have placed the term business in italics at appropriate places to indicate that we have in mind a simulated or practice activity.

Making successful deals involves:

1. understanding the motives of those you want to deal with
2. enthusiastically promoting what a business can deliver
3. clearly understanding and recording what the deal entails

Winning help and support

Overview

There is a lot of advice and support available for businesses, much of which is free, so it is important to take advantage of the resources available. Knowing what is available and where to find it can help you in planning, starting-up and growing a small business. Support can range from practical advice on how to manage business finances to finding more customers.

You might do this if you want to:

1. develop the abilities that will help when setting up a business in the future
2. understand how other people and organisations can help

This standard is intended for use in schools and similar settings. It is anticipated that learning and development programmes that are consistent with the standard will have practical activities that mirror or practice aspects of business enterprise, use case studies and other examples of business enterprise and bring people into contact with successful entrepreneurs. To reflect the fact that we do not expect people working to these standards to be directly engaged in preparing, starting or running a real business we have placed the term business in italics at appropriate places to indicate that we have in mind a simulated or practice activity.
